Re: Poll Results for the Wisconsin Senate General Election

Going into the final month of the election cycle, the critical race for Senate in Wisconsin is a dead heat. After winning the first debate and weathering a barrage of negative attacks from Ron Johnson and his allies, Mandela Barnes has the momentum going into the final stretch.

- Barnes and Johnson are tied in the key Wisconsin Senate race. In two separate polls, Barnes and Johnson are neck and neck in a race that could decide control of the Senate. Barnes is up 1-point in a Clarity Campaign poll, which also shows him being up 10 points among the critical swing group of Independents, while Johnson has a 1-point advantage in the recently released public poll conducted by CBS News.

*The following findings are based on the results of a survey conducted by Clarity Campaign Labs from October 7-11, 2022, in Wisconsin among N=874 likely general election voters. Calls were conducted using a mix of automated calls to landlines and live calls to cellphones. The results are subject to a margin of error of $\pm 3.3\%$.
